ABOUT ME

Brussels-based graduate with a background in EU external action, international law and global governance, now working across EU digital and AI policy. Currently finishing a second Master's at KU Leuven, with a thesis on EU international legal responsibility applied to Horizon Europe funding decisions through the ARIO, after an MSc in International Relations from UvA and a Bachelor's in Political Science between Brussels, Ghent and Stockholm. I work at EAVI, a Brussels media literacy NGO, across administration, policy monitoring and research: I serve as the team's internal reference on the forthcoming EU Kids Act, I follow the AI Act and the DSA day to day, and I co-lead desk research on a Commission-funded study on AI-enabled interference in the 2024 elections. I also write occasional pieces on emerging technology and EU affairs on my personal website. Comfortable across Italian, English and French, with basic Spanish. Outside work, I make time for hiking, sport, travel and cooking.
